

Chapter 2

Structure of Thoughts

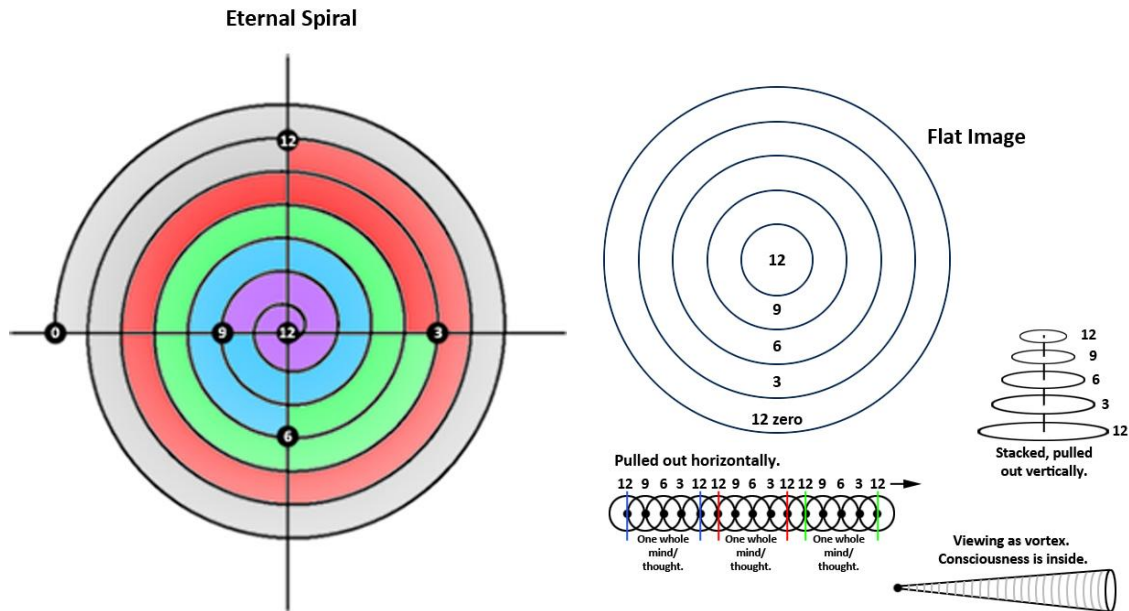

We have already seen how a thought is created, in book 1, with the creation of the Eternal Spiral. As previously stated, a replicated mind of Source (Star-Sun) is one thought of Source. All thoughts are created via the exact same process of Source energy expanding and contracting from a creation point. All thoughts holds the exact same layers. The only thing that changes is how much of Source energy is turned on within a thought. All of creation, from the micro to the macro level of creation, is thoughts. All thoughts are the thoughts of Source, held within the whole mind of Source. We call the whole mind of Source the universe.

We are now going to focus on looking into our local Source mind, which is our sun. No worries, you will not need anything to protect your eyes. However, the more you focus inward, you may experience temporary headaches. This is simply the result of looking at higher levels of energy in your brain. Your brain will adjust and the headache will subside.

A thought is created upon the structure of the Eternal Spiral. Just by thinking about something, a thought is created. Creating thoughts and experiencing thoughts are two different things. You do not require an individual body expression to think thoughts. However, you do require an individual body expression to "experience thoughts". Experiencing thoughts is the process of touching them, smelling them, and all senses we call senses of the body. Source creates simply by thinking but Source cannot experience the thoughts Source creates until Source embodies within an individual body form, which allows thoughts to be experienced.

It is for this specific reason that Source creates all of creation. Source desires to experience the thoughts of Source. In doing so, Source eternally expands and understands more of Source. Therefore, creation is eternally expanding. Source does desire to do that within balance and is why Source creates all of creation to be held within an eternal state of balance. Imbalance can only occur within individual, embodied expressions of Source. Individual, embodied expressions of Source is "polarized energy of Source". Imbalance can only occur within polarized energy. Imbalance is a result of free will choices. Imbalance is the result of embodied faces of Source experimenting, to discover what they can create.

As a reminder, the following images illustrates the layers of mind, and one thought. The spherical layers of a thought are created upon the Eternal Spiral. Replicated minds of Source express as stars, within the manifest realms of creation. All smaller, energy thoughts, are held "within" the replicated minds of Source. Our sun is our local Source mind. Everything that expresses within the solar plane is thoughts, held within our Sun Source mind. That means your embodied expression is a thought, created and experienced within the mind of the Sun.

We saw how the Eternal Spiral creates spherical layers in book 1. The smaller image here (Pulled out horizontally) is showing us that the Spiral of spheres is Eternal. This has always been the importance of the Vesica Piscis symbol. It represents the fact that the spheres within spheres of creation are all created from the center point of the previous and next sphere. The Vesica Piscis symbol is but one tiny piece of creation, yet when one can remember the truth, it is the very basic piece that explains all of creation.

We are currently looking into the layers of our Sun conscious mind. The "manifest expression" of thoughts occurs within the zero 12 point sphere. Within our Sun mind, we call the zero 12 point sphere the solar plane. What we experience as our sun are the layers composed of 12, 9, 6 & 3. However, what we experience as our sun is a very tiny amount of the energy of our sun. As we know, what we experience as planets, occurs within the solar plane field.

Our local, home system is our time matrix-galaxy. The galactic plane is the zero 12 point sphere of our Galactic Sun Source Mind. All that expresses within the galactic plane is thoughts, held within our Galactic Sun Mind.

The image we see of the galactic plane is what human consciousness can currently see of a "possible expression" of the thoughts, held within the galactic plane. What embodied consciousness "see" is based on the level of energy embodied and the body form consciousness is embodied within.

The "thoughts" experienced within this time matrix galaxy are held "within" the zero 12 point sphere of the Galactic Sun, or the galactic plane. The zero 12 point sphere of a layer of a replicated mind is also called the "collective pool of thoughts". All embodied expressions of Source hold the potential to experience all thoughts, held within the galactic plane. All thoughts held within the galactic plane will look different, and experience differently, within each solar star system. This is because each solar star system is a smaller energy replicated mind of Source. It means there are an uncountable number of possible experiences, and expressions, of the "same thought". The determining factor of how a thought will look, and be experienced, is the level of energy of the embodied face of Source experiencing the thought.

Here is a simple example. We are told by science that the chicken used to express as a dinosaur. The age of the dinosaurs is a time period within the earth ascension system when higher consciousness, of the original four planetary shields, cycled through the ascension system for healing. When that consciousness was embodied within the earth system, the same thought expressed as a thought much larger in size, looking completely different. When the higher levels of healing consciousness ascended, or merged back into mind, the expression of thoughts there were creating stopped being created, within the hologram. Their thoughts "turned off". The "experience" of their thoughts turning off was the dinosaurs becoming extinct, within the earth system.

Today it is the remains of fragmented consciousness of the original planetary shield one, cycling through the ascension system, which is much lower in energy. Therefore, modern humans are experiencing the same thought expressing as the chicken, instead of a dinosaur. It is the expression of the thought as it looks, and is experienced, within the level of energy of modern day humans.

The same thought could be experienced within any star system, of the galactic plane, and it would look different within each of them. It would also look different within each of the four planetary shields, within each of the solar planes.

All thoughts, that are created by all of the uncountable expressions of Source, within the galactic plane, are available for experience by all individual faces of Source embodied within the galactic plane. This is because to embody within the galactic plane, to embody within a solar plane, the embodied consciousness plugs into the zero 12 point spheres of the plane fields. This allows embodied consciousness access to all thoughts, held within the galactic plane.

When consciousness is embodied, they experience the parts of creation that hold more energy as larger in size and the parts that hold less energy as smaller in size. Size only exists in relationship to the embodied expression, and the amount of energy the embodied expression holds.

When consciousness removes their energy from the individual body form, they experience expanding back into higher levels of energy, as is moving through a vortex, or a tunnel of energy. It looks as though you are moving toward the end of the tunnel and from the experiential level, it looks as though the end of the tunnel holds a bright white light. The truth is, all of the layers, or spheres within spheres, are the same size, and size is an illusion, based on your current moment level of energy. The truth is, thoughts take up no space.

However, we are dealing with experiencing the illusion of space and to be able to create images to share with you, I must include the illusion of space. The illusion of space is the result of consciousness expressing at different levels of energy. This turns off energy to awareness, which makes it seem as though there is a vast amount of space within creation. What we experience as "empty space" is not empty. We simply cannot see the energy that is held within that space. Similar to the way we cannot "see" the air around us.

The unseen, non-manifest expression of thoughts, is a spherical form which we call radiation. Thought spheres are spheres of radiation. Each of the trillions of cells that compose the human body expression are thought spheres. In relationship to the way we see an image of the encryption held within thought spheres, we could think of them as the pixels that form the image.

An image, which is what we see and experience as manifest matter, is a "thought image". Thought images are similar to looking at pictures, imposed on a roll of film for a camera. The image we see as the vastness of creation, which we call the universe, is one image, or one picture, coded within the cells of our body. The way that image currently looks to us is the result of how that image looks within our current level of energy, within our current body form expression. That means, when you heal back into balance, and embody within a healed body form expression, the image you see of creation is going to look completely different.

It does not require the use of science or math to create thought spheres. Thought spheres are created simply by the expressions of Source thinking. Focusing your energy into a thought, continuing to think about a thought, creates the thought sphere. The image you hold, that you focus your energy into, writes the coding, or encryption, of the thought. "What you visualize, imagine, is what you create". That is why absolutely anything is possible, within creation. All that has to occur to create something is for the faces of Source to think about it.

Our embodied expression is plugged into the zero 12 point sphere of our local Sun mind. Our local Sun mind is plugged into the zero 12 point sphere of our Galactic mind. This means our embodied expression is held "within" the collective pool of thoughts. Our body form is part of the collective pool of thoughts. We call the collective pool of thoughts, "empty space"

The local expression of our self, that is looking at, and experiencing, thoughts as they express within this earth system, is our Sun Source mind. The expression you call "you", housed within your body form, is the "you expression" seated within our Sun Source mind. That is where your current mind expression is located, it is our Sun. What makes you an individual expression of Source is the fact that your expression is a unique level of energy of Source consciousness. Within our Sun Source mind you are a sphere of energy, or a sphere of radiation, that holds its unique amount of Source energy.

Your unique expression is also seated in our Galactic Source mind. It is from that seated location that you are projecting Rays of your conscious Source energy into the galactic plane, to take a seat within the uncountable number of stars. You may have a Ray of consciousness plugged into each star, at the same time. All of your Rays of consciousness, you are projecting from your Galactic Sun mind location, into the galactic plane, is your "personal family line of consciousness".

This most likely sounds impossible, but it is the truth. It may also sound impossible to know that there could be an uncountable number expressions of your personal family of consciousness who are currently healing from fall status. It is quite normal for embodied, polarized faces of Source to experience falling in energy. This is because free will allows the individual expressions of Source to "experiment", to discover what Source is capable of creating. However, it is so rare, to the point that it is almost non heard of, for four planetary shields of consciousness, of one solar system, to all fragment, and experience falling in energy at the same time. That makes this earth system a very rare system, indeed. It also makes the process of healing the fallen consciousness of this earth system an extremely rare experiment. Source does not know what Source is capable of creating until Source creates it. That means all of creation is an eternal experiment. Creation is Source discovering Source. Creation is Source discovering what Source is capable of. That is why all of creation is spiritual.

Our "embodied" expression of Source is held within the collective thought pool. We could say we are swimming within a sea of thought spheres. Science calls this sea "background radiation. Science currently has no clue that it is a sea of conscious Source energy, filled with an uncountable number of thought spheres.

Imagine a sea of water, the entire sea holds the same level of energy. The same thoughts are held within the entire sea. Now imagine creating a "vacuum" within one section of the sea. Perhaps imagine taking a bowl and pushing it down within the sea, just enough that the bowl is filled with water of the sea. The same energy that is held within the whole sea is now held within the bowl. It is simply a smaller amount of the same energy. The bowl creates a vacuum, within the sea. There is only one opening where water can enter and leave the bowl. This one opening equates to the creation 12 point, of the bowl. The amount of energy, water, within the bowl is less than that of the entire sea. This creates a unique sphere of energy to experience within. That is similar to what stars are. Everything that is experienced, and seen, occurs within the bowl, or the vacuum.

Your individual body expression is yet one smaller bowl, or container, that creates yet a smaller vacuum, within the large vacuum of the solar plane. It creates your unique, individual sphere to experience thoughts uniquely within. Each cell in your body are trillions of smaller vacuums. This is what a "closed system means". It means for consciousness to enter into the vacuum they must be of the same level of energy held within the vacuum. If they are not, the energy of the vacuum pushes them away. What science calls black holes are simply doorways, or entry ways, to other levels of energy vacuums, held within the sea of consciousness. As sea which science calls the "unified field".

It is possible to see the sea of thought spheres our body is held within. Many people see this sea all the time but have no clue what it is. It is easiest to see when looking into a clear blue sky, but it can also be seen when indoors. It simply depends on the level of energy of the individual looking. When looking into a clear blue sky, look as though you are looking at the air. When doing so, the blue of the sky becomes rather faded, or is simply a background that you are not looking directly at.

If the light is too bright, put your hands on either sides of your eyes, to diffuse some of the light. You can see a sea of tiny white spheres, that seem to be vibrating ever so slightly. That IS the sea of thought spheres, of the vacuum of our personal body, that our consciousness is currently held within.

Royal Raymond Rife (May 16, 1888 – August 5, 1971), an American inventor and early exponent of high-magnification time-lapse cine-micrography, discovered the thought field but he did not realize it was a thought field. You can find more about his thoughts via this link and across the internet. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Royal_Rife

Another person who became aware of the thought field is Alfred Rupert Sheldrake (born 28 June 1942). An English author, public speaker, and researcher in the field of parapsychology. He named the thought field a morphogenetic field.

Science simply calls it background radiation and tries to take it apart to see what it is made of. Science could not "see" or "think" the way these men did so cannot become aware of what they did. Weather scientists simply call it air, wind or the atmosphere. The general population simply call it "empty space", or thin air. Everyone calls it what their level of energy will allow them to think about, therefore believe. The light orbs that some people see in the sky, or show up in photographs, are "thought spheres", or spheres of radiation, which hold specific encryptions. When you project your consciousness to a point that seems to be away from your current location, you show up within that point of energy as a light sphere/radiation sphere/thought sphere.

This is why whatever affects one affects the whole. It is why your pets know when you are on your way home, and start to get excited. It is what allows for telepathy. It is why you may have a thought of a person and they either call or show up at your door. It is why people can become aware of something prior to being told about it. It is why you may experience a loved who drops the body stopping by to say "see you later". It is because all of humanity is held within the same pool of thoughts, within the same vacuum we call the planet.